

“I first visited the World Vision Experience: AIDS exhibit on World AIDS Day 2007 when it was at Saddleback Church in Orange County, CA. Walking through the small hallway in the Kenyan home of Kombo, I was inspired and sombered. I’ve had the opportunity to visit Africa and this exhibit transported me back to this beautiful continent. The struggles, illness, poverty, as well as the unwavering hope of the people were represented so well by Kombo’s life. I’ve had the privilege of personally meeting kids like Kombo and listening to their stories of hardship and resilience. The World Vision Experience: AIDS exhibit is the next best thing. Parents and teachers everywhere should bring their kids and let them experience life through the eyes of Kombo and the other World Vision children.”

- Jenna Bush
Daughter of George W. Bush